Powder Post Beetles

Treatments for wood-boring beetles can vary greatly. Be sure you understand which beetle is involved and why the treatment is necessary.

Wooden items (such as antique furniture) should be brought to our vacuum fumigation chamber.

Treatments of a structure can depend on the particular beetle and the extent of infestation. Lyctid beetles in hardwood floors can require a tent fumigation of the structure. Anobiid beetles in substructure may require replacing a few wooden members or chemical application with borates. Don't jump to an expensive treatment unless and until you have good information.
